World Food Bank Is Discussed; Would Save for Famine

Experts Insist Action Now Might Save Countless Persons, Provide Reservoir

Rome, Nov. 23 (AP)—The ancient problem of the seven lean years and seven fat years, harking back to Joseph's interpretation of Pharaoh's dream, comes up today for modern settlement.

Joseph proposed a food reserve system—and so do the experts of the food and agriculture organization whose 500 delegates from 68 nations are starting their three-week Seventh World conference here.

High on their agenda is General Director Norris E. Dodd's urgent request that they come to a decision whether to found a world food bank, to store reserves against famine.

The issue has been buffeted about for three years now, without agreement on how it should be done.

Would Cost Millions

Almost all plans so far advanced would cost millions of dollars.

But experts insist it might save countless lives and would provide a useful reservoir into which regional food surpluses could be poured, helping stabilize prices.

Three alternative proposals have been made by commissions struggling to work out a system member nations would approve:

1. Storing in various parts of the world an internationally-owned reserve food supply adequate to meet any normal famine emergency;
2. Establishment of an international emergency relief fund with which food could be bought to cope with such needs;
3. Reservation in surplus-producing nations of nationally-owned food reserves available for world famine needs.

So far none has come near winning majority support.

Combination Favored

Most delegates favored a combination of two of the three proposals. The latest expert commission which studied the plans suggested a combination of the nationally-owned reserves with some sort of international food to provide and distribute them.

FAO's delegates also must decide what to do about the general director's warning that food production still isn't increasing fast enough.

Latest figures show that for the first time since the war, food production increased last year and this at a rate slightly greater than the increase in population.

Population has been going up at 1.5 per cent a year. In 1952-53 food production increased 2.3 per cent.

Dodd calls that an almost negligible advance in a world where nearly 70 per cent of the people are underfed.

Operates on Schedule

Montreal, Nov. 23 (AP)—Montreal's public transport operated on schedule today after a 24-hour wildcat strike that halted buses and streetcars in this city of 1½ millions Saturday. The strike ended early yesterday after union leaders at a meeting Saturday night told workers the stoppage was illegal. Defying union orders, the men stopped work at midnight Friday in protest against the Transport Commission's refusal to negotiate their demands for higher pay and better working conditions.

Sweet Music for Sinners

Ipswich, England, Nov. 23 (AP)—The blare of a Salvation Army band next door was sweet music to sinners who robbed a branch post office here last night. The burglar alarm went off, but nobody heard it over the drums and brasses. The thieves got away with about 3,250 pounds.

Couple and Child Slashed in Home

Mysterious Assault Leaves 3 in Critical Shape; Wife Cites Mate

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—A Queens couple and their 7-year-old daughter were critically slashed in their home today.

Victims of the mysterious 3 a. m. assault were: David Flegenheimer, 37, a hair net manufacturer with a small plant in Manhattan; his wife, Evelyn, 35; and their daughter, Jane.

All were taken to Queens General Hospital in critical condition from their home at 82-05 166th street, Flushing-Hillcrest.

The father and daughter were unconscious. The mother, who police said had been in private mental institutions off and on for several years until last summer, was hysterical and was given a sedative.

Police said Mrs. Flegenheimer told them this story, which was being investigated further:

Wife Gives Story

She awoke in bed to find her husband trying to pour ether down her throat from a can. "As she struggled, he stabbed her with an ice pick and penknife in various parts of the body. Much of the ether had spilled on the bed clothes. The husband threw several .22 calibre rifle bullets, onto the bed and set it afire with a match. He then went into the child's bedroom, broke the rifle butt over the child's head, inflicting deep cuts, and then stabbed her seven times in the chest with an ice pick."

Police, summoned by a neighbor found the husband unconscious in a pool of blood at a side door of the house. They said he apparently had slashed his face and wrists.

Mrs. Flegenheimer was screaming in her burning bed. Part of her pajamas was smoldering, but she was not burned. The child was not burned. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Good Flying Weather Is Forecast for Trip Of Elizabeth, Duke; to Be Gone 6 Months

London, Nov. 23 (AP)—Flying weather fit for a queen was forecast for the start tonight of the six-month round-the-world Commonwealth tour by Elizabeth II and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh.

Security guards at London Airport kept a 24-hour watch over the American-built stratosphere Canopus. It was scheduled to take off at 8:45 p. m. (3:45 p. m. EST) with the royal couple for Bermuda travelling by way of Gander, Nfld.

It will be the first transatlantic flight in history for a reigning British sovereign though Elizabeth before succeeding to the throne, made the aerial crossing with her husband in 1951 for their tour of Canada and the United States.

Workmen put finishing touches on platforms for television cameras to carry the departure to an audience estimated by the British Broadcasting Corp. at 12 million.

The farewell was planned as a full state occasion, with members of the royal family on hand to see the queen and the duke off along with Prime Minister Churchill and the Commonwealth high commissioners in London.

Light southeasterly winds and visibility of about a mile were forecast. Heavy clouds were predicted at about 1,000 feet but the stratosphere crew planned to fly above it.

The plane is due in Bermuda Tuesday.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to safeguard the flight. Eight destroyers of the British and Canadian navies were spaced out across the North Atlantic for a radio watch of the 2,400-mile flight to Gander.

The Royal Canadian Air Force bombers will provide a flying escort for the last 900 miles of the Atlantic hop and will accompany the Canopus for the rest of the way to Bermuda.

The royal couple will be gone until next May.

Two Men, Woman, Two Children Are Victims of Crash

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—Five persons were found dead today aboard a small private passenger plane that crashed in the fog during the night at LaGuardia Field.

The crash occurred near the northwest corner of the big field and the wreckage was not discovered until about 9 a. m. (EST).

The dead were two men, a woman and her two small children. Police said the plane was believed to be a Piper Pacer that was reported missing late yesterday on a short flight between two towns on Long Island—East Hampton, about 100 miles from here, and Babylon, 40 miles away.

Listed as Dead

Airport authorities listed the dead as:

Alfred Laborde, pilot, of New York.

Mrs. William Nissim, her year-old daughter Corina and three-year-old son, William, Jr., of Wantagh.

Jersey Woman Killed at Newburgh

Newburgh, Nov. 23 (AP)—A New Jersey woman was instantly killed and several others injured last night in an automobile accident caused by fog.

The dead woman was Mrs. Frieda Kalin, 57, of Passaic, N. J. Her husband, Morris, 65, who was driving the car, suffered a cut on the knee but was not otherwise injured.

Also hurt were his brother, Alex Kalin, 58, of Paterson, N. J., who suffered multiple cuts and bruises, and possible fractures of both hips, and Ann Rouss, 52, of 284 Carpenter St., Newburgh, who suffered a cut lip and possible skull fracture.

They were both reported in fairly good condition at St. Luke's Hospital here.

The accident occurred on Route 32 about a mile south of Newburgh.

Kalin said he skidded on a spot where the mist had wet the pavement, and the car went off the road and hit two trees.

Negotiators OK Russia For Parley

Must Act on Communist Side, Not Neutral; Dean Optimistic on Peace Talks

Panmunjom, Nov. 23 (AP)—Allied negotiators today OK'd Russia as a member of the Korean peace conference but as a "full participant" on the Communist side rather than a neutral.

U. S. Ambassador Arthur Dean again proposed that Russia attend the meeting as a belligerent after urging the Communists to explain their plan for neutrals to attend the conference—which he termed a "pig in a bag."

"You want me to buy it without being able to examine it," Dean told the Reds in a subcommittee meeting on the composition and site of a Korean peace conference. The Allied-Red preliminary talks are in their fifth week.

Russian participation on the Communist side was approved by the UN Aug. 28, when it adopted its plan for the conference—a meeting of the two warring sides only.

The Reds have plumped for a round table conference, with non-belligerents attending.

Talks Moving Slowly

Dean, who represents the United Nations which fought in Korea, told newsmen after Monday's meeting he was "still optimistic" although he felt the talks were moving at a "snail's pace."

He said he told the Reds they were making an "arbitrary demand" by insisting on non-belligerent participation without making clear exactly what the added nations' roles would be. The Communists have proposed that non-belligerents attend, without a vote on important matters, but have refused to go into details on their plans.

No progress was reported in the subcommittee meeting on the starting date of the conference.

Name-Calling Dropped

Dean told newsmen the Reds had dropped their recent stream of name-calling which apparently was a stall for time.

He said that in Monday's meeting they only "denounced us for not accepting their 'constructive proposal.'" Dean termed this the "old commie tactic which they hope will change our minds."

Meanwhile, the Swedish member of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission sided with the Allied Command in the view that all war prisoners who haven't returned to their homelands should be released as civilians Jan. 22.

Agreement No Secret

"That is the way I read the armistice agreement," said Maj. Gen. Jan Stenstrom. "There is no secret about it—the disposition of the prisoners will be up to the Indian Red Cross and the UNRC."

Stenstrom's interpretation—like that of the UN Command—runs in variance to that expressed by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India, who has suggested that the problem be tossed back to the Red and Allied commands if the problem remains unsettled.

Only 25 more working days left out of the original 90-day explanation period, it was obvious the explanations would not be completed unless there was a complete—and entirely unexpected—change in Red tactics.

Of the 22,592 former Red soldiers the Communists have talked to only 2,431 in the only seven days they have tried explanations. Less than 3 per cent chose communism.

The commission Monday voted down a Communist Polish plan to build segregation compounds for prisoners the Reds have summoned but failed to interview in any one day.

The Indian command said such a plan is impractical.

Eisenhower Plans Augusta Holiday

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower will leave at 9 a. m. tomorrow for a Thanksgiving holiday in Augusta, Ga.

The White House announced the President and Mrs. Eisenhower, traveling in Eisenhower's private plane, the Columbine, will fly first to Ft. Benning, Ga., to pick up their son, his wife and the grandchildren and take them on to Augusta.

The son, Maj. John Eisenhower, is stationed at Ft. Benning.

The President plans to return to Washington Sunday night. Thus he will miss the Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia on Saturday.

Utilities Sustain Some Damage in Ulster County

High Winds, Lightning Affect Lines in Scattered Areas of Region

High winds and an electrical storm early this morning caused scattered damage to area utilities and downed trees and branches in some areas of the county.

The unseasonal storm came during a warm spell. Temperatures reached a new record high on Saturday, when a maximum 65 degrees was recorded at the city engineering department in Kingston, a record high for Nov. 21. Previous high for the date occurred last year, when 62 degrees was reached.

Sunday's high temperature reached 64 degrees, falling just five degrees short of the record 69 degrees recorded on Nov. 22, 1940. The lowest temperature recorded overnight was 55 degrees.

Rainfall Recorded

A total of .77 inch of rain fell during the 24 hour period which ended at 8 a. m. today at Ashokan, according to the New York City Department of Water Supply.

Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation reported scattered trouble, mostly due to falling branches and limbs taking down wires, at Kerhonkson, Accord, Creek Lakes, Bloomington, and the Stone Ridge-Hurley area.

The New York Telephone Company reported 45 lines out of service during the night in the Kingston area. Both electric and telephone service had been restored later in the morning.

Smoke Haze Clears

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—A thick haze that choked Metropolitan New York for six days cleared today, but left tragedy in its wake.

Last night, with the city still shrouded in fumes, grit, smoke and fog, a small private plane crashed at La Guardia Field, killing five persons.

Three others died yesterday and early today in automobile accidents blamed on the dense pall of mist and industrial smoke hanging over the city.

A steady rain in the early morning hours washed the air comparatively clear, giving New Yorkers their first heartening breath of air in nearly a week.

Many had developed cases of hay-fever-like sneezing and irritated noses and throats during the period of atmospheric gloom.

The early-morning rain also routed a smoky fog that had hung over the New England coast, hampering sea and air travel. Normal flying schedules were resumed as the seaboard air cleared.

Latest of the fatal highway accidents attributed to fog occurred early today in a two-car crash on the New York State Thruway. An infant was killed, and four adults and another child were injured.

Thousands Get Butter

Berlin, Nov. 23 (AP)—Thousands of East Berliners flocked from the Soviet sector into West Berlin today to get a pound of butter each as a gift from the American people. An hour after the distribution got under way, 2,000 aged Germans had been given their butter and 4,000 more were in line. No incidents were reported in the early hours and officials at the distribution point in the British sector said things were moving smoothly. They said 236,000 pounds of butter will be given to East Berliners in the next two weeks.

Senate Group Plans Brownell Evidence To Go Into Record

No Witnesses Announced in Advance; Morris Speaks on Hoover Appearance

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP)—Senate investigators looked to the Justice Department today for answers on how much information the Truman administration had linking Harry Dexter White's co-workers with Red espionage.

With no witnesses announced in advance, the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee called a public hearing (2 p. m.) to put into the record documentary evidence requested from Atty. Gen. Brownell.

It was Brownell who rekindled the Communists-in-government controversy. He charged in a speech Nov. 6 that, despite FBI reports pointing to White as a spy, former President Truman promoted White in 1946 from assistant secretary of the treasury to U. S. director of the International Monetary Fund.

Truman, in a nationwide radio-TV reply, accused Brownell of "cheap political trickery" and said he permitted the promotion of White, now dead, to keep him and others accused as spies under surveillance.

But FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover, testifying before the Senate subcommittee, said he did not agree in advance to such an arrangement and that it hampered the FBI's watch on White. Last night, subcommittee counsel Robert Morris said Hoover turned (Continued on Page 17, Col. 4)

First at New Paltz

The earliest of the three major safe-cracking thefts this month was on or about Nov. 1 when more than $1,000 in cash was reported taken from VanGonsie's Huguenot Motor Sales at New Paltz. Also at about the same time a safe was reported tampered with at a Wallkill school.

The second, about a week later, was at VanGorder's garage along Route 209 near Ellenville. More than $1,000 was reported taken from a safe there.

The safe at the Martin & Moran garage was cracked with that something.

Safe Thieves Get $1,800 in Break At Local Garage

Safecrackers, who use garage tools, continued boldly active in the area over the weekend, if police are correct in assuming that the third major garage theft this month was committed by the same team or "crew," at the Martin & Moran garage on East Chester street.

The latest theft, looking much like the others, was reported to local police at 11:50 a. m., Sunday. Other lesser burglaries and attempts have also been reported within the last two months.

Detective Clarence Brophy and Officers Carl Janasiewicz, Ernest Bartroff and Harold DeGraft, who investigated immediately after the report, said a safe at the Martin & Moran garage had been entered and about $1,800 reported missing.

Survey for Newburgh

The only action authorized, to date, toward the building of a Newburgh-Beacon bridge is a "triangulation survey" to determine the best possible location of a bridge in that area.

Hoe said he felt the bridge down the river would be desirable, "but I think the state should pay for it, or the major part of the cost, and not expect the State Highway Authority to add another bridge to be financed from the tolls collected from bridges in the Mid-Hudson area."

Recall Is Demanded

Cairo, Egypt, Nov. 23 (AP)—Authoritative sources said today Egypt has demanded the recall of Turkish Ambassador Fuad Halusi Tugay, whose wife is a second cousin of exiled King Farouk. The sources said the withdrawal was demanded after Tugay gave a press interview in Istanbul last week in which he criticized the Egyptian government's action aimed at confiscation of the former Egyptian dynasty. Mrs. Tugay's land holdings in Egypt total more than 1,000 acres.

Span to Be Narrower Than Plans

Authority to Save Two Millions on 36-Foot Width—East Road Is to Be Bid

Actual construction work on the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge over the Hudson should start in early spring, an official statement from the authority indicated today.

The authority also revealed that the bridge will be built at a cost of $2,000,000 less than the originally estimated $18,000,000 after a change of plans to reduce road space.

James F. Loughran, of this city, chairman of the New York State Bridge Authority, today authorized a statement which said the authority had voted at its Nov. 4 meeting to reduce the width of the road over the bridge from 48 to 36 feet to effect the saving.

This does not mean that the bridge will be inconveniently narrow, because the Mid-Hudson Bridge at Poughkeepsie is now only 30 feet wide in road surface.

East Approach Bids

The statement today also said that plans for the eastern approach of the structure are now in the hands of the state public works department which is expected in the near future to advertise for bids.

The authority anticipates that work on the abutments and piers will start in the early spring.

First announcement of the plan to reduce the road space on the bridge was made at Poughkeepsie over the weekend by Robert Hoe, Poughkeepsie member of the authority.

To Have Three Lanes

Reduction of the road means that the bridge will have three 12-foot traffic lanes instead of four as originally planned. No present span over the river, except the Bear Mountain bridge, which was privately built, has the equivalent of three 12-foot traffic lanes.

Hoe's Poughkeepsie statement indicated that a survey will be made to determine "whether it is feasible for the state to build a Newburgh-Beacon bridge and how much such a bridge will cost."

Survey for Newburgh

The only action authorized, to date, toward the building of a Newburgh-Beacon bridge is a "triangulation survey" to determine the best possible location of a bridge in that area.

Hoe said he felt the bridge down the river would be desirable, "but I think the state should pay for it, or the major part of the cost, and not expect the State Highway Authority to add another bridge to be financed from the tolls collected from bridges in the Mid-Hudson area."

St. Nick Arrives Despite 'Smaze'

Like the postman who is not deterred by rain or hail or fog or snow, Santa Claus braved the "smaze" Sunday and arrived at the Kingston-Ulster Airport to keep his appointment with hundreds of children from the Kingston area.

Early Sunday a heavy frost and haze hung over the north pole so Santa Claus arrived by plane early Sunday and spent some time visiting about the Kingston area checking on the behavior of certain children, Joseph Scott of Scott's store at 295 Wall street, reported.

Long before Santa arrived at the airport at 2:30 p. m., a large crowd was present to greet him. Cars were lined along Boice's Lane and around the flying field and deputy sheriff's had a job keeping traffic in order.

Kiddies Present Lists

During his stay in Kingston Santa held interviews with hundreds of children who handed their lists of presents to the jolly old fellow. Lollypops were presented and the youngsters had a grand time.

An air of carnival spirit was added to the affair when an enterprising salesman from Poughkeepsie arrived early at the airport and sold gas balloons to the children.

After receiving suggestions from the hundreds of kiddies Santa Claus flew back to his workshop at the North Pole to attempt to fill the orders.

Joseph Scott today expressed his thanks to the Rossi music shop for loan of records which were played over the loud speaker contributed by the Reade's Kingston Theatre and also to Dick McCarthy who acted as master of ceremonies.

Attendance at the coming of Santa was equally as large as in 1950 when Santa arrived by plane, indicating that Santa is accustomed to bad weather, rain, frost and fog.

Texas Fined $15 For Hunting on Reservoir Land

A reminder that hunting is forbidden on New York city reservoir property was contained in a report today from the Department of Water Supply police that a Texas resident was fined $15 last Thursday on a charge of trespassing.

Arrested by Patrolman Dennis Carroll of the DWS police near Ashokan, Conrad Albert Hoppe of Beaumont, Tex., pleaded guilty when he was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Frank C. Carle and was fined $15.

In reporting the arrest, Sgt. Vincent Eckert of the DWS police at Ashokan said that all New York city property is posted to the effect that there is "positively no trespassing for any purpose except fishing under permit." Permits for fishing may be obtained at no cost at the Department of Water Supply office in the Burgevin Building, Main and Fair streets, Kingston.

Saxton Man Says Pet Goat Is Shot By Deer Hunter

Harry Cassidy of Saxton reported to state police Sunday morning that his pet goat was shot by a deer hunter while it was standing near the rear porch of Cassidy's home, less than two feet away from Mr. Cassidy.

He told troopers that they had raised the goat as a pet and that Mrs. Cassidy was leaning over the rear porch railing feeding a piece of bread to the goat when it was shot through the belly by an unidentified hunter about 250 yards away.

Cassidy said the goat is a dark colored animal with horns about five or six inches long.

The animal was still breathing today while troopers began investigating the complaint.

Blaze Is Reported

The East Kingston fire company was called to check a fire in some hay on the property of L. Goskanian two miles north of East Kingston Sunday, but the firemen found on their arrival that the blaze was under control and was being watched.

Case Is Adjourned

August Parker, 37, of 73 Crane street, was arrested by his wife, Theresa shortly after 6 p. m., Saturday on a third degree assault charge. The case was adjourned to Dec. 5 when he appeared to-day before City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Five Persons Killed

Paul Hotel, New York. According to police, all the victims were decapitated.

LaGuardia Field authorities said the plane was listed as the property of J. P. Bend, manager of an airport near Washington, D. C., where it was rented recently.

A LaGuardia official said the plane took off from Zahn's Airport, at Amityville, on Long Island, at 11 a. m., Sunday and landed at East Hampton.

Called His Wife

The official said before starting the return flight at 4 p. m., the pilot called his wife in New York city to tell her that he would be home soon. When he did not arrive, she notified authorities, and the Coast Guard Air-Sea Rescue Service was alerted.

Construction men en route to work found the wreckage in a drainage ditch. The engine had been pushed into the cabin of the plane.

Two Pistols Found

Police said they found two pistols, for which there were no permits, in addition to the broken rifle.

The police had been called by a next door neighbor of the Flegenhimer, Joe Miller, a milkman. Hearing screams, he entered the Flegenhimer home by an unlocked side door. He said Flegenhimer raved at him when he asked what had happened, so he ran home and telephoned to police and firemen.

Know Melds, Save Self Grief

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please settle a dispute on fair play," writes a Miami correspondent. "We all want to play fair in our game, but we can't agree on what is right."

"In a game recently, my partner and I had our initial meld on the table, and so did the opponents. As the hand progressed I had in my hand three jokers, four fives, and some odd cards. I didn't want to get caught with three jokers in my hand, but I didn't want to give up the chance of picking up the pack. What to do?"

"I put the three jokers down, together with two of my four fives. I held the other two fives in my hand. This preserved my chance of winning the pack, but got rid of the three jokers so that I would be plus 150 points instead of minus 150 points if the enemy melded out suddenly."

"As it happened, they didn't meld out. My right-hand opponent's next discard was a five. Thereupon I produced my two fives and swooped down on the discard pile."

"It was then that the debate started. My opponents said that I had not played fair in melding only two fives with three jokers. They said that I should have melded only one joker with the pair of fives and the other two jokers elsewhere."

"They didn't object to my taking the pile eventually with my pair of fives that were still in my hand, but they did object to the meld that I had made on my previous play."

"What about this?" The meld of two fives and three jokers was correct, legal, fair and very clever. There wasn't a single thing wrong about it. The opponents had no conceivable grounds for complaint."

Now, after having stated the position as firmly as I can, let me go into the details. To begin with, it is perfectly legal to meld three wild cards with a pair. Three wild cards is the limit in any meld, and you are allowed to use up to that limit even if you then have more wild cards than natural cards. Secondly, if the opponents think you have made an illegal meld, they must speak up when you make the meld—not four plays later. Most errors are made legal when the next player goes ahead with a play instead of calling attention to the error."

Thirdly, the psychological effect of melding all the wild cards with the fives was to make the opponents believe that you had no more fives in your hand and would therefore need the wild cards. If was not only legal but clever to meld all the jokers with the pair of fives."

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

WHAT THE SPIES ACCOMPLISHED

The various spy groups, organized in this country, were enormously effective and accomplished more than we know. The following is an attempt to bring together a list of their achievements:

1. The Rosenberg ring stole the atom bomb and infiltrated scientific agencies of the armed forces engaged in experimental work. Rosenberg personally stole a proximity fuse. He organized a capable group of agents at the Signal Corps stations at Astoria, Long Island and at Fort Monmouth in New Jersey. This group stole our radar developments for Soviet Russia.

Julius Rosenberg must have been more important than we yet know because the Fort Monmouth investigation indicates that his work was widely distributed over the country and reached into private industries manufacturing essential war materials.

2. Amtorg, set up as a trading company, was a cover for economic espionage, the extent of which is not yet fully disclosed. Enough is known, however, to confirm the suspicion that Amtorg took advantage of the friendliness of American business houses to a customer to obtain production plans.

3. The policy of the State Department, particularly as to China, came under the control of the Institute of Pacific Relations, which was used by an espionage group as a base for activities. This group, of which Alger Hiss and Lauchlin Currie were effective, was dominated by Edward C. Carter and Frederick Vanderbilt Field. It corralled a number of capable American writers who, by placing many articles in American magazines and writing what seemed to be authoritative books, established an atmosphere, particularly in the State Department, favorable to Communist China. Owen Lattimore, now under indictment, was one of the leading experts projected before the American people by the Institute of Pacific Relations. During the periods when George Marshall and Dean Acheson were in charge of the State Department, the institute group dominated American policy.

4. Alger Hiss worked his way up into high echelons in the State Department, being President Roosevelt's expert at Yalta where all the decisions were favorable to Soviet Russia. He was the principal American official in charge of the San Francisco Conference where the Charter of the United Nations was prepared.

5. The OWI, the American propaganda agency during World War II, contained an effective pro-Communist cell. Agencies serving the OWI consisted of European so-called experts, many of whom were Communists. Joseph Barnes, named several times as a Communist in Congressional committee hearings, was in charge of the New York office.

6. The International Information Administration, which includes the Voice of America, was penetrated deeply by Communists, pro-Communists and pro-Russians. Investigations by Congressional committees produced evidence of such infiltration. The cleaning-out job in this agency has not been done satisfactorily.

7. Books, pamphlets, lecture courses, prepared for troops abroad during World War II, and even current indoctrination courses prepared for military officers, have been slanted favorably toward the Russian point of view. As recently as January, 1952, the General Headquarters of the United Nations and the Far East Command, Military Intelligence Section, issued a book to indoctrinate intelligence officers entitled "Psychological and Cultural Traits of Soviet Siberia." This is definitely a Communist book designed to "brain-wash" American officers. Testimony concerning it developed in closed hearings before the McCarthy Committee. It is here cited as an example of a continuing process.

8. The White House staff was infiltrated by the presence of Lauchlin Currie and Michael Greenberg when Roosevelt was President. Lauchlin Currie played a signal role in the formation of the China policy and in placing Communists, pro-Communists and their allies in various agencies of government. The role of David K. Niles, often discussed but never quite established by public evidence, must be mentioned in passing.

9. The hearings before the Jenner Committee, during which Attorney General Brownell and FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover testified, established the existence of an espionage ring in the Treasury, headed by Harry Dexter White. This was a section of an espionage apparatus headed by Nathan Gregory Silvermaster.

Several groups existed in the Department of Agriculture in the AAA, the National Labor Relations Board, the Department of Commerce and other agencies of government.

This is the beginning of the evidence.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

AFTER A BRAIN STROKE

Now that brain strokes and heart strokes are becoming increasingly common, it should be remembered that they are both caused by high blood pressure. While we have all been reading and hearing much about heart strokes, we have not been hearing and reading about brain strokes—apoplexy.

Some months ago I wrote about small brain strokes as reported by Dr. Walter Alvarez, Mayo Clinic. In Geriatrics, the journal devoted to the study of aging individuals, Dr. Alvarez, who is the editor, writes an account of an address by Dr. Rusk on the rehabilitation of aged persons and, particularly, those who have had a brain stroke. As many physicians, after giving immediate care, do not follow up these cases, Dr. Rusk and his colleagues are trying to teach physicians to give these unhappy oldsters a better deal. There is much they can do for them. "Often the first thing to do is to give some hope to patient and his family to build up their morale."

Notwithstanding the stroke, if it appears that the thinking and character-forming parts of the brain have not been too greatly injured, the patient can be reminded of persons like Pasteur who lived for 27 years after a serious stroke and during this time did most of his great work for humanity."

While it is true that some strokes put an end to the patient's useful life, other strokes leave him in such good condition that he can return to his office and run his business as well as ever for many years.

The first thought is to reassure the patient that though he may have additional strokes, he will still be able to go back to his regular work; that he can live for years without having another stroke, or, even should they occur, he will not necessarily lose out.

"When the patient is mentally slowed up, irritable, and full of complaints after a stroke, the doctor can do much for him by explaining to his family what has happened to his brain and inducing them to be more understanding and more sympathetic." The doctor in a big city can often find a trained speech worker who can do much to help the person with an aphasia (loss of speech) to speak again. Also, a trained physiotherapist can keep the muscles in arm or leg in good condition until their strength comes back.

And, finally, Dr. Rusk suggests that in some cases, the doctor should send away occasionally the harassed wife, almost worn out with constant care of the invalid, for a little rest so that she will not break down completely.

How Is Your Blood Pressure?

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA) — Attorney General Herbert Brownell was still in the thick of his first big fight with ex-President Harry S. Truman over the Harry Dexter White spy case, when he took on a second Democratic administration official.

The new opponent is Herbert A. Bergson, former assistant attorney general in charge of the Antitrust division, who has just been indicted by a federal grand jury in Washington on charges of violating the so-called "conflict-of-interest" law. Bergson has denied the charges, demanded an immediate trial—and the fight is on.

If there are political implications in this new attack of the attorney general's, however, they're pretty well fuzied up. Bergson, 44, was born in Boston. After graduation from Harvard Law School in 1933, he went to work as a clerk in Department of Justice. Working his way up in the department, he was told by Attorney General Tom Clark in 1948 that he would be made an assistant attorney general if he could get enough political backing to assure confirmation by the then GOP Senate majority.

Bergson went to the two Massachusetts senators, who were Republicans, Lodge and Saltonstall, and they backed him. He served as assistant attorney general from May, 1948, to September, 1950.

He resigned to open a Washington law office, but a short time later C. E. Wilson of General Electric, another Republican, drafted Bergson as general counsel of the Office of Defense Mobilization. He served for six months without pay, to help get ODM started, during the Korean war.

Companies He Prosecuted

The conflict-of-interest law which Bergson is now accused of having violated, prohibits any official from prosecuting any claims against the United States on any matter he handled as a government employee within two years of the time he leaves federal service.

Last August Attorney General Brownell issued a memorandum in which he interpreted this "prosecuting any claim" to mean broadly, "representation in any matter in which the United States has any interest whatsoever."

The case against Bergson was presented to the grand jury in an obvious attempt to test this broad interpretation. The indictment against him was returned, incidentally, on the last day before the statute of limitations would have expired on one of the two counts in this obvious guinea-pig test. The cases are these:

In 1949, Bergson as assistant attorney general, prosecuted the Minnesota Mining Co., the Carborundum Co., and four other manufacturers of abrasives for price-fixing and restraint of trade. The government won this case on Nov. 6, 1950.

Later that same month, as a private attorney, Bergson on behalf of the same companies, asked the Department of Justice for anti-trust clearance on a proposed merger. Attorney General Brownell contends this was a violation of the conflict-of-interest law.

Law Not Applicable

Bergson contends this merger was an entirely new case and a case which he did not handle as a government employee. Also, he contends that asking for a merger clearance does not constitute the prosecution of any claim against the government.

The second count involves the United States Pipeline Co. In July, 1950, the grand jury indictment contends that this company sought an antitrust clearance letter, which was then denied. A year later, as attorney for the company, it is charged that Bergson sought antitrust clearance which was then granted.

Bergson contends that the 1950 action did not involve antitrust clearance, but was a plan for a common-carrier pipeline which he merely passed along to another division of the Department of Justice.

The outcome of this case against Bergson will be watched by every government and ex-government lawyer, as it will set ethical standards for future conduct by the legal profession.

By asking for an immediate trial, Bergson has moved to get a quick interpretation on this section of the law intended to break up an old racket by government officials who resign from federal service and use their inside information to prosecute claims against the U. S.

If Bergson had asked for dismissal of the charges and allowed the case to be subject to numerous delays, it could have been kicked around as a political football for a couple of years or more.

German Waltz

Though the French, Italians, and Bavarians each claim they gave birth to it, the waltz as it now is danced, comes from Germany, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Nov. 22 (AP)—The commercial practices of politicians are disclosed in sordid detail in memoirs which have rushed from the book-factories during the fateful reign of Roosevelt and the years since his war. We were pinked by a strictly sidelong disclosure that Harold Ickes was carting off home as his own boodle great cargoes of documents concerning his official activities, including evidence of guilt, and the proposition is conceded by the fault whatever such pack-rats get away with is theirs.

For years and years between the first two World Wars, David Lloyd George turned the crank and thick red books came out, seriatim, done in the long-winded style of a space-reporter on the old Herald, concerning historic intimacies in Whitehall, Downing Street and GHQ. Henry Morgenthau once took off in Collier's with a few preliminary compositions about his reign but before you could say Harry Dexter White the series closed abruptly with no point really made. Some malcontent had asked who owned the legal title to countless recordings and other memoranda which had been done on office time and by government help. If this ever was decided that decision escaped me and the issue was raised most untimely, for otherwise Henry might have prattled on to prove much of damning significance to history.

The practical avarice of the grand politician is a bold trait. Roosevelt, we know, acted as capper for his son, Elliott, and, having got him half-a-million of sucker-money, used the power of his office, the Department of Justice and the Internal Revenue, to intimidate the victims.

For years, many of us have heard of enormous fees that La Boga got for squawking "Polly-

Retention of William Remington in Capital Job Viewed as Parallel to White Case

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 22 — Some day, when the story of the scope of the Communist intrigue inside the United States government becomes so clear and simple to grasp that even those articulate critics who have failed to pay attention to the facts—poured out for several years in official documents—will no longer pooh-poo the Communist menace, the tragic aspect of the Harry Dexter White episode will stand out in perspective as not an isolated case at all. It is a matter of profound regret and sadness that some Americans—regarded by the public as spokesmen here and there for the Democratic and Republican parties—should be indicating by their writing and utterances in the last two weeks that they care far more whether the White case would hurt or help one party or the other politically than they did about unting in a forthright condemnation of the bald-faced treason of highly placed officials, as revealed in the reports of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, now disclosed.

The story of the years upon years of frustration suffered by the FBI director and his associates in ferreting out the traitors, only to see them kept on in government posts, has gotten little emphasis. Yet instead, an effort has been made to pin a political label or motive on the FBI director because he told the facts to a Senate subcommittee. Already there are some Democrats who are said to be preparing a political barrage against the efficiency of the FBI for allegedly failing to find out about the espionage ring before Elizabeth Bentley testified in 1945. Having been goaded once into telling the facts publicly in order to protect the integrity of the FBI against stories planted by FBI apologists—that the FBI had agreed to keep White on in government just to watch him—the FBI now may be forced to tell the whole sordid record of how report after report was made, beginning in 1943, and how both the Roosevelt and Truman administrations disregarded those reports.

It would be much better for these Democratic strategists to begin condemning a few Communists instead of persisting in the tactics of the last few years, which have been to try to discredit the man who makes the charges while ignoring the seriousness of the charges themselves.

It was in 1939 that Whittaker Chambers first told his story about Alger Hiss to an Assistant Secretary of State, but President Roosevelt chose to ignore it. In 1943 the FBI took up the trail on Hiss, but no committee of Congress was permitted to have the FBI facts, by order of the White House.

Remington Case Cited
What a blow to the morale of any honest, painstaking, hard-working group of law-enforcement officers who get convincing information on criminals, and then see the latter kept on in their government jobs! And what of the many loyal officials inside the government and the members of Congressional committees who kept pressing the last two administrations to take action against subversives, only to be met by a cry that it was all just a "Red herding"?

Take the case of William Remington. A Senate subcommittee, headed by Sen. Fergusson of Michigan, Republican, released on Sept. 5, 1948, a report which was prepared in large part by William P. Rogers, then its counsel, who now is Deputy Attorney General under Mr. Brownell. That report reads almost exactly like the record in the White case. It said:

"The subcommittee believes that the case of William W. Remington is not necessarily an isolated one."

According to testimony before the subcommittee, Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley, a confessed Soviet spy, appeared at the field office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at New Haven, Conn., in August, 1945. She was closely examined by the bureau agents and told her complete story between August and December, 1945. Among the matters disclosed to the agents was Remington's connection with her espionage activities.

"The subcommittee is at a loss to understand how Remington could remain as a government employee between Dec., 1945, and his suspension on June 28, 1948. From December, 1945, to June, 1948, Remington was on assignment to the executive office of the President of the United States—with the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion. After his discharge from the Navy, he remained as a civilian employee of that agency until March, 1947.

From March, 1947, to March, 1948, he was with the Council of Economic Advisers, which is also a White House staff agency. During the time that he was with the Council of Economic Advisers, he was loaned to the Harriman committee which formulated the Marshall Plan program. He transferred from the Council of Economic Advisers to the Office of International Trade in the Commerce Department on March 18, 1948, where he held a most sensitive position, namely chairman of the 'ad hoc' committee which handled information of a most confidential nature concerning exports and imports to and from Russia and its satellite countries."

Now, Remington himself confirmed later in his testimony before the Senate committee that he "was definitely associated with individuals who were Communists in their sympathies," and he admitted meeting Miss Bentley through individuals known to him to be Communists, and that he had in surreptitious places and during his government employment. He admitted virtually all of Miss Bentley's testimony to be true, but claimed she misunderstood his motives, and that the information he gave her was not secret. That plea made it possible to avoid prosecution, because under the existing espionage laws it must be proved in court that the information is "detrimental to the United States," and nobody knows how the Soviet government used the information which Miss Bentley and others transmitted.

So, finally, Remington was tried on a perjury charge—he swore falsely that he had never been a member of the Communist party—and he was convicted in 1951, got a new trial on a technicality, was tried and convicted the next year by a jury a second time, and still has an appeal pending.

What is not yet realized by a vast number of Americans is that a man may not himself improperly influence governmental policy. He may prove himself meticulous in his fidelity to duty on the things he does in his official post, and may yet make available secretly to a foreign government information of a confidential character from inside his own and other departments of our government. He cannot be prosecuted for espionage for this, but he can be dismissed from his government job for disloyalty. That's the point over which a smoke-screen has been raised by those critics who have been arguing that a spy isn't a spy really and must be presumed innocent until he is actually convicted in a court proceeding.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE
Eleventh Trick Is Just Perfectionism
By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
When the Winter National Championships begin in Dallas, Mrs. Edith Kemp is sure to defend the open team title that she helped win last year.
One of the reasons Mrs. Kemp wins so many tournament events is that she takes the trouble to ask herself why her opponents play or bid as they do. The result of this type of question is shown in today's hand.
West opened the queen of spades! This imaginative lead was made at several tables, where West hoped to "find" his partner's long suit. At some tables, West regained the lead quickly when declarer took a finesse for the queen of clubs. The ace of spades and a spade continuation then produced four spade tricks, setting the contract.

When Mrs. Kemp won the first trick with the king of spades she thought to herself: "Hm, he must have honors in every suit to make a weird lead like that." And, of course, this was exactly why West had chosen to lead the queen of spades. He'd have been delighted to lead something harmless like a worthless doubleton or tripton.
Testing her impression, Mrs. Kemp led the jack of hearts at the second trick. West promptly covered with the queen, and dummy won with the king. Declarer returned to her hand with the ace of clubs and led another heart, finessing dummy's eight.

The success of this play confirmed her impression about the nature of West's hand. She decided to cash another top club, scoring the finesse. This dropped West's queen, and now declarer had four club tricks. West had such obvious trouble in finding discards on the clubs that Mrs. Kemp decided that it was quite safe to take the diamond finesse too.
This added insult to injury, since making 10 tricks was enough for top. The eleventh trick was just an example of perfectionism.

Despite His Rebuff, Taylor Will Remain

Albany, Nov. 23 (AP)—The Republican state chairman has indicated he intends to stay at the helm despite an apparent rebuff to Gov. Dewey and the party's executive committee by Republican state senators.

Rep. Dean P. Taylor, in a statement issued Saturday night, said the resignation of former Acting Lt. Gov. Arthur H. Wicks "in all respects" met the objective of the state committee. It echoed Dewey's declaration earlier last week that "the resignation speaks for itself."

In advance of a special legislative session, last Tuesday and Wednesday, Taylor had said he "would very seriously consider" resigning as chairman if Sen. Wicks did not step down and the Senate made no move to oust him as majority leader and president pro tem. Wicks held the office of acting lieutenant governor through the latter post.

PITCHING HORSESHOESBy BILLY ROSE*UNFAIR TO ORGANIZED BURLARS

Yesterday the switchboard girl at my theatre announced that Major Timothy Morgan was waiting to see me.

"The way he puts it," she said, "he begs an audience."

"Tell the old hustler we're fresh out of audiences," I said. "Suggest he try the Roxy where 'The Robe' is playing."

A minute later, my door banged open and the self-commissioned Major walked in, 190 pounds of solid flab.

"William, my boy," he said in the sandpaper voice that used to make spun candy unravel and merry-go-rounds run backwards. "I am here to render the American people a service."

"You're about to turn yourself in," I said.

"Your japeries leave me untouched," said the Mahatma of the Midways. "It so happens, my friend, that petty thievery in these environs has trebled in the past ten years. As I see it, it is your duty as a columnist to warn the youth of the nation that crime does not pay—not by mouthing empty platitudes but by citing significant examples. By mere coincidence, Sir, I have three splendid instances to point up this moral, and I shall be happy to part with them for twenty leaves of the crinkly."

"Pour yourself a drink," I said. "We'll discuss space rates later."

The old bunko and blarney artist downed a five-finger slug of bourbon and daintily dabbed at his lips with a hanky.

"My first solving saga," he began, "concerns itself with a smalltime dastard in Colorado who recently sold a trusting citizen a batch of phony jewelry—diamonds cut from an old ginger-ale bottle. Some weeks later this larcenous gent broke into a house in the suburbs of Denver and scooped up a mess of trinkets in the dark. When he got back to his own diggings, however—"

"He found that he had stolen his own phony jewelry," I said. "That oldie, Major, is worth $1.98 in a seller's market. However, if you shed real tears I might go up to $2."

"Even the great Christy Mathewson had to warm up," said Morgan. "My next example is laid in the quaint French coastal village of St. Nazaire. Not long ago, an enterprising young burglar figured out a way to rob a waterfront pawnshop without being seen by the gendarme on the beat. He swam in from a small boat, broke through a rear window overlooking the bay, and then started to swim back with the loot in a bag tied to his neck. Halfway to his boat, disaster overtook him. A shark—a man-eating shark—suddenly stuck its snout out of the briny and chased him back to the mainland where the gendarme was waiting for him."

"That yarn has possibilities," I said. "Keep pitching."

"My third and final example," said the Major, "is a melancholy and freiful tale. It has to do with a student in a New Jersey college whose parents had sent him several hundred dollars to pay for tuition and board. The night the money arrived, the youth dropped into an unsavory roadhouse and, after a beer too many, made the mistake of flashing his bank roll."

"As might be expected, sir, this was noticed by three shady characters at the bar, and an hour later when the young man left the roadhouse they offered to drive him back to his college. On a deserted piece of road the trio roughed the lad up a bit, took his wad and ejected him from the car. And as they drove away, they were certain they wouldn't be apprehended—none of them had ever been arrested and the police had no photographs which might be identified."

"Nevertheless, the following evening when the thieves reached the toll gate of the George Washington Bridge, a squad of police cars was waiting for them."

I took a $20 bill from my wallet and waved it at the Major.

"It's all yours," I said, "if you'll explain how the cops happened to make the pinch."

"The scalawags didn't know their victim was an art student," said Morgan, folding the twenty and stashing it behind the sweat-band of his pearl gray derby. "As soon as the youth came to his senses, he went to the nearest police station, asked for pad and pencil, and made precise sketches of the holdup men from memory."

"Seems to me I read the story some place," I said. "Incidentally, didn't one of the thieves have a nose like a Balinese sunset?"

"I resent the insinuation," said the Major as he stood up to go. "On the night of the theft—and I have the timetable to prove it—I was en route to Bowling Green, Kentucky, to visit an ailing uncle."

CONSTIPATED?

"I can't afford to lose any time at work. But when I was constipated, I just couldn't work because no laxative gave me the relief I wanted.

"Then a friend told me about Sal Hepatica. So I took some the next time I woke up with that headachy, lousy feeling due to constipation. And, let me tell you, it was just what I was looking for. Why I felt like my old self again within about an hour!"

Yes, take sparkling Sal Hepatica before breakfast and feel fine again... usually within an hour. Or, take it in the evening one-half hour before supper and feel fine again by bedtime! Sweetens sour stomach, too! So keep Sal Hepatica handy in your medicine chest.

Rain Partly Clears New York of Smog

(By The Associated Press)

An eastward moving low pressure system brought rain to New England and the middle Atlantic states, and the storm-lashed Pacific coast battered down for more blows the Weather Bureau said are on the way.

And in the deep south, a network of thunderstorms that spawned two tornadoes in Louisiana and northwestern Florida Sunday had moved eastward.

The rain had cleansed and partly washed away the five-day smog that blanketed New York and environs and caused breathing discomfort late last week.

Rain-swollen rivers isolated several southwestern Oregon towns Sunday, caused property damage, threatened to flood lowlands and drowned some livestock. Landslides loosed by the rain, and high water blocked several highways in Oregon and northern California.

Winds, Tides Whip Coast

High winds and high tides whipped the Washington coast, too, but without serious damage. Precipitation amounts included 2.15 inches at Eugene, Ore., 2.67 at Medford and 4.07 at Cape Blanco.

Freezing and near-freezing temperatures were general from the Great Plains to the eastern Great Lakes and as far south as Texas. It was some 10 to 20 degrees warmer along the eastern seaboard and from the Rocky Mountains eastward. Aberdeen, S. D.'s 17 was lowest of the morning.

One tornado smashed six homes and injured 21 persons in Woodville, Fla., Sunday, and another ripped across two southern Louisiana parishes (counties), destroying 26 homes but injuring only one person.

Czechs Escape Reds

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 23 (AP)—Two Communist-hating Czechs who flew a tiny one-engine plane over the Iron Curtain to freedom were safe in West Germany today. They landed their Piper Cub in an open field southeast of Regensburg yesterday after a 2½-hour flight from Prague that almost ended in disaster when Czechoslovakia border guards opened fire as it swooped into West Germany. Neither the plane nor the men was hit. The names of the two Czechs, 23 and 25, were withheld by U. S. Army authorities pending an investigation of the freedom flight. The plane was slightly damaged in landing.

Plane Wreckage Found

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—The wreckage of a private plane that apparently crashed in the fog during the night, was found near a runway at LaGuardia Field today. Police said the bodies of two persons were aboard the craft.

Dies From Injuries
Port Jervis, Nov. 23 (AP)—Kenneth Frank Jankowski, 17, of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., died in St. Francis Hospital yesterday following an automobile accident on Route 42. Richard Artus, 19, of Astoria, Queens, who was riding in the car driven by Jankowski, also was taken to the hospital but was reported in good condition. State police said apparently Jankowski lost control of the car on a curve, and the car overturned after hitting two trees.

Happy Murdering

By FRANK TRIPP

Every problem posed by progress gets solved somehow. Yet sometimes, looking into the future, they seem insurmountable. I'm beginning to fret about where all of the mystery thrillers are going to come from.

Television is exposing plots on an average of six a day; which threatens that ere long the morgues could be bare, all the way back to Conan Doyle and Gaboriau. The Erle Stanley Gardner, Ellery Queens, George Coxes, et al., will have to step up production.

Some people cast slurs at the mystery fans. Even there are dyes in the wool devotees who hide their liking for the blood curdlers. They keep their quarter whodunit in their bedroom for late night reading and hide it inside a newspaper when on trains. For why?

YOU'D BE AMAZED to know how many famous and learned people turn to the detective story for diversion and mental relaxation, and have from the days of Nick Carter.

Also you'd be surprised if all of the successful writers who have tried to write a thriller would confess that they never dared show their single miserable effort to their most intimate friend. It's a trade by itself.

Still it looks like such a cinch; this business of fooling readers by holding back the evidence. I never wrote one, nor tried; which makes me exactly the guy to tell you how it's done; being an authority by reason of never having failed at something I never tried. Amazing how often that's the definition of an "expert."

FOND PARENTS who ponder the future of their children might consider a mystery career, along with medicine, engineering and the sciences; and universities might draw trade with a shocker course and a degree.

Because, and don't be fooled, there's a vast and growing audience. People want to be puzzled and scared.

Until such time as other instruction is available, I'm glad to be able to get you or your hopeful off on the right foot, toward fame and shekels no end.

YOU DO IT like this: Find a beautiful blonde, strangled. The scene? Any place where you can get two chapters out of a description of the stairs, the furniture and the wall paper. You can buy these two chapters ready made if you'd rather.

The lethal weapon is a man's necktie; a mite trite, but you can have this one different; say it was bought at Macy's in 1898. Clue number one.

Inspector Popeye remembers that the Spanish-American War broke out in 1898. Thus you cleverly avoid time-absorbing deduction. This narrows the investigation down to Macy's necktie counter and the United States Army.

WHAT SOLDIER, off for Cuba, bought a blue necktie at Macy's in 1898? That'll puzzle 'em. Nobody knows but you, the author. You only need conceal your secret until Page 204.

There'll be plenty to fill the preceding 203 pages; such as 55 years of Macy sales slips, six million GIs with blue neckties; how you know this one was bought in 1898, and how it got around the neck of a blonde who wasn't born until 1930. The possibilities are enormous.

BUT THESE items are mere details, not properly the function of an instructor to reveal. There's where your bid for fame reposes. Just take any ordinary situation like this one, solve it, write the story backwards—and you're in.

Although an expert on plots, as you can see, I'm also (and no kiddin') one of the millions who love 'em, and will be watching the pulp racks and soap operas for your crash to glory.

Good luck—and happy murdering! (Copyright, 1953, General Features Corporation)

President to Get B'nai B'rith Award

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower will receive an award for "enrichment of America's heritage of freedom" when he speaks tonight at the 40th anniversary dinner of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. The presentation by League President Henry Edward Schultz of New York will climax a four-day meeting and, along with Eisenhower's speech, will be nationally televised (CBS direct, 7 p. m., with kinescopes later).

The League said it will be "a glittering, one-hour anniversary program produced by Rodgers and Hammerstein, the Broadway song-writing team."

A bullet, fired from a gun and keeping its peak muzzle velocity, would require seven years to reach the sun.

Deaths Reported

(By The Associated Press)
Fort Collins, Colo.—Frank C. Miller, 67, former member of the Buffalo Bill Wild West Show. Born in Fort Collins. Died Friday.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Dr. Carl E. Buck, 62, University of Michigan public health expert. Born in Leipsig, Germany. Died Sunday.

Hollywood — Lawrence James Shields, 60, member of the original Dixieland jazz band and co-composer of "Tiger Rag." Born in New Orleans. Died Saturday.

New York—Kenneth White, 47, playwright and poet. Died Saturday.

New York — Nathaniel W. Barnes, 69, retired executive secretary of the Assn. of Consulting Management Engineers. Born in Newburgh. Died Friday.

New York—Savely Sorine, 74, Russian-born portrait painter. Died Sunday.

Hints Are Given on Preparing, Roasting Thanksgiving Turkey

If you are a new housekeeper or have never tackled the preparation of a Thanksgiving turkey before, the following hints from the New York State Turkey Association may be of some help to you:

What Size to Buy
Buy one-half pound ready-to-cook turkey per serving. The table below suggests the number of servings for ready-to-cook weights of turkey. The actual number of servings depends on the quality of the turkey, correct cooking and your carving skill.

Ready-to-cook turkey (lbs.)	No. of servings
8 to 10 lbs.	16 to 20
10 to 14 lbs.	20 to 28
14 to 18 lbs.	28 to 36
18 to 20 lbs.	36 to 40
20 to 24 lbs.	40 to 50

Stuffing the Turkey
Turkey should be stuffed just before roasting. Do not stuff ahead of time. Combine ingredients before stuffing the bird.

Allow one cup of stuffing per pound ready-to-cook weight or ½ cup stuffing dressed weight to fill cavity and neck.

Don't pack stuffing tightly. If you do, it will be soggy and bird may burst when stuffing expands during cooking.

How Long to Cook Turkey
To determine how long to cook your turkey, use the chart below. It gives the approximate time required to cook chilled turkeys of various weights.

Ready to cook wt. (lbs.)	Oven temp.	Total cooking time (hours)
8 to 12	325°F	4 to 4½ hrs.
12 to 16	325°F	4½ to 5 hrs.
16 to 20	325°F	5½ to 7 hrs.
20 to 24	325°F	7 to 8½ hrs.

If you buy a dressed turkey subtract five pounds for heavy weight, three pounds for medium weight and two pounds for light weight turkey to obtain approximate ready-to-cook weight.

Start the bird 30 to 40 minutes ahead of schedule to avoid delay should the turkey take longer to cook than estimated. This also allows time to make gravy, remove trussing cords and arrange the bird attractively on the platter.

How to Tell When Done
To tell when the turkey is done, move the drumsticks up and down. If the leg joint gives readily or breaks, the turkey is done. Or press the fleshy part of the drumstick, protecting fingers with cloth or paper. If the meat feels soft, it is done.

Roasting the Turkey
Correct roasting is slow cooking by dry heat on a rack in an open pan. It requires no water, no basting, no cover and no searing.

Low temperatures assure better flavor and appearance, less shrinkage and less loss of juice.

A shallow open pan allows the heat to circulate around the bird, roasting it evenly.

A rack at least ½ inch high raises the bird off the bottom of the pan, keeping it out of the juices.

For best results follow these simple steps:

Rub cavity lightly with salt. Put enough stuffing in neck to fill it out nicely and fasten neck skin to back with skewer. Stuff cavity well, but do not pack tightly.

Truss bird and grease skin thoroughly with melted and softened fat.

Place in shallow pan. Cover top and sides of bird with fat moistened cloth, preferably clean, white cheesecloth.

Place in pre-heated oven set at proper temperature indicated on timetable.

Do not sear, cover, or add salt.

Flights Are Scheduled

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—Eastern Air Lines today inaugurates the nation's first plane service with turbocompound engines, scheduling two flights from New York to Miami. Eddie Rickenbacker, Eastern chairman, said in a Washington news conference yesterday that 88-passenger Lockheed Super-C Constellations will make the nonstop flights in 3½ hours. The Super-C Constellation and the new Douglas DC7s are equipped with the same Wright turbocompound engines—conventional piston engines fitted with turbines. Exhaust gases turn the turbines and contribute 20 per cent more power without increasing fuel consumption. American Airlines will introduce the Douglas DC7s in regular service later this month, flying nonstop between New York and Los Angeles.

Fell Between Cars

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—A young man died Saturday after falling between two cars of a Sunday train as it pulled into the Sixteen-year-old Charles Harrison had a toothache when he went to work as attendant at a gas station last night. So he tied a scarf around his jaw. Suddenly five police cars rushed into the gas station. Harrison, startled, removed the scarf and explained to the chagrined police that he worked there. Seems a passerby noticing the scarf, mistook Harrison for a masked bandit and notified police.

Dies in Fall

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—Mrs. Bessie Sack, 69, of the Bronx, was killed yesterday when she fell or jumped to a rear yard from the roof of the six-story building in which she lived, police reported. No notes were found. She was pronounced dead by an ambulance doctor from Fordham Hospital.

Key Club

Every year Key Club, a KHS service organization, undertakes at least one major project. For its project this year the club is planning to help Kiwanis with its safety program by selling license plates with safety slogans on them. In December, Key Club will hold a rummage sale and it is also planning to sell KHS book.

Covers

Besides the service projects, Key Club is planning several social events, one of which may be a dance.

The club's first social affair of the year was a hayride attended only by members and their dates. The truck left from the vocational building at 7:30 Saturday, November 14. This was the first such event Key Club had ever planned.

At their weekly meetings Key Club members have already heard several speakers. These include men who have toured foreign countries, local business men and faculty members. The attendance at these meetings has been excellent.

Clubs Open Programs

Kingston High School's Club program got underway this week. For most of the organizations it meant electing officers and discussing informally the projects that they hope to undertake during the remainder of the year.

The 35 members of the Business Club were selected by a committee headed by Mr. Zambardi, club adviser. The members were chosen on the basis of what they could contribute to the club's activities. At their first meeting Tuesday, the members named the following officers: President Frank Tiano; Vice-President Marge Settera, and Leo Keating, secretary. The treasurer will be chosen at the next meeting.

Future Homemakers of America also organized Tuesday with Faith Gersbach as president. Thelma Sharer is serving as vice president while Judy Arguevicz is secretary and Carolyn Smith, treasurer. Mrs. Simpson is club adviser.

Scholarship Material

The Student Council, in cooperation with the Guidance Department, is arranging a display of scholarship material for various colleges. The display is being featured in Hall C, senior study hall and a number of upper classmen are showing a keen interest in the exhibit.

Pep Rally

On Nov. 25 at 7 p. m. KHS will have the annual Football Pep Rally. A parade will start at the high school and will convene to the stadium where a bonfire will take place.

Leading the parade will be the KHS variety cheerleaders and the KHS band. Students will follow. Coach G. Warren Kias will officiate at the rally.

Clothing Drive

Seventeen bags were filled with wearable used clothing in the annual drive at KHS for the needy children overseas. The freshmen and juniors, working together, were in the lead with eight bags and the seniors and sophomores collected five. Chairman of the drive was Richard English with Robert Burns acting as co-chairman. Miss Quimby was their faculty advisor.

History Group Being Formed

The John Burroughs' Natural History Society has extended an invitation to KHSers who are interested in becoming members. The purpose of the club is to foster the study of natural history and encourage the conservation of natural resources. Students interested in joining may contact Mrs. Helen Hayes, one of several faculty members belonging to the organization.

Talent Show

During the past two weeks students have been signing for auditions with Martin Morrette, band director for a talent show. A special January assembly is planned when those who have been accepted will perform. The acts will include singing, tap dancing and musical numbers. Last year's talent show, also managed by Morrette, was one of the outstanding assemblies of the year.

Jornalism Club

On Thursday there was a special assembly given by the General Motors Incorp. for both the A and B groups. This assembly was both entertaining and educational in the field of science.

Campaign Is Launched

Ripley, Tenn., Nov. 23 (AP)—When the Men's Bible class at First Baptist Church launched a campaign to increase attendance one member had little trouble filling his quota. Sheriff Willard Norvell reported to class yesterday with three jail prisoners in tow. Prodded by the sheriff, the men said they were glad to be there. They were escorted back to jail afterward.

Nixon Tells Asians They Will Decide Future of World

Manila, Nov. 23 (AP)—U. S. Vice President Nixon told an audience of 50,000 cheering youths today the "young people in Asia are on the march and will decide the future of the world."

In his only public speech on a four-day visit to the Philippines, Nixon said:

"The young people in Asia are going to be the ones who will decide the future in Asia and, deciding the future in Asia and southeast Asia, they will decide the future of the world."

Nixon said that while the world conflict today is military and economic, "the most significant battle which goes on in the world today is not military or economic but it is a battle for the minds, hearts and souls of men."

"Who wins that battle will rule the peoples of the world."

"In the Philippines you have your choice on the side of free nations as against slave nations."

Tribute to Magsaysay

Nixon paid tribute to Ramon Magsaysay, president-elect of the Philippines, as an "humble man (who) will dedicate his life in developing a strong, free government."

He urged the Philippines to be an example "not only to the peoples in the Pacific but to the people all over the world."

Nixon and Filipino leaders were dinner guests tonight of U. S. Ambassador Raymond Spruance.

The Vice President and Mrs. Nixon made a 60-mile trip to Los Banos, site of a wartime American internment camp. They stopped repeatedly to meet school children and teachers lining the streets of small villages.

The Nixons also visited a 4-H Club on a plantation.

Cornice Is Damaged

A fire, apparently caused by a spark from the stack of a dredging unit, damaged about six feet of cornice on a building at Island Dock Inc., used for making concrete blocks Saturday night. Firemen were called at 7:50 p. m., and quenched the blaze with a booster line. The sand dredge, Esopus, had been working near the building during the day.

Car Leaves Road

Joseph L. LoPresto, 21, of Massachusetts, received minor lacerations and bruises when the automobile he was driving ran off the east shoulder of Route 209 a mile north of Wawarsing about 12:15 a. m., today and struck a telephone pole, state police of Ellenville reported. No arrest was made.

TB Seal Founder
Is Speaker for
Rotary-Kiwanis*LEIGH M. HODGES

Leigh Mitchell Hodges, sole survivor of the four founders of the Christmas Seal, will be the speaker at a joint Rotary-Kiwanis club meeting Wednesday noon at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

The Rotary Club, following an established custom, invited Kiwanians to join in the meeting on the day before Thanksgiving, which falls on the regular meeting day of Kiwanis.

Hodges in 1907, while a member of the editorial staff of the now-defunct Philadelphia North American, assisted Emily P. Bissell in inaugurating the first sale of Christmas Seals in this country, launching a publicity campaign that paved the way to the present nationwide effort to conquer tuberculosis.

Is Columnist

Born in Denver, Hodges has had a distinguished career as writer and lecturer. His newspaper column, The Optimist, now in its 50th year and appearing in the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, is the oldest of its kind under one authorship.

He is the author of The People Against Tuberculosis, and several books of essays; a contributor to the Reader's Digest, the New Yorker and other magazines, and an honorary member of the National Tuberculosis Association and the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis and Health Society. His home is in Doylestown, Pa.

Louis R. Netter, managing editor of The Freeman and a member of the Rotary Club, is chairman of the Wednesday luncheon program. Arrangements for Hodges' appearance were made through the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, and members of its board of directors are invited guests at the luncheon.

On Wednesday morning, Hodges will appear with Dr. Frederic Holcomb, president of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, on the local radio program, Coffee at the Clinton.

Dogs Help Fire Laddies

York, Nov. 23 (AP)—If it weren't for the dogs, there's just no telling when some of the volunteer firemen in this village near Rochester would get to a fire. When Harry Kelley's house caught fire yesterday, here's what happened: The wind was coming from the wrong direction and volunteers in some parts of the village couldn't hear the alerting siren on the fire hall. But the sensitive ears of neighborhood dogs heard it. The pups started yapping and carrying on. That was the call of duty for the firemen. They hurried to the Kelley house and doused the flames, which did about $1,000 damage. Unusual? No, say the firemen. They often have to depend on the dogs when the wind is wrong.

Senate Group Plans

down one invitation to testify in the case but accepted a second. Morris, interviewed on an NBC television program, said Hoover decided to break his self-imposed ban on Congressional committee appearances "after a story was well circulated" that he had agreed to keeping White in the government.

When asked, Morris said he doubted Hoover considered whether his testimony might cost him his job if the Democrats came into power later. There were indications Hoover might get a cool reception from Democrats when he goes before Congress next year in support of the FBI budget request.

Lot Cast With GOP

Some Democrats, while not saying anything publicly, seem to feel Hoover cast his lot with the GOP administration and tarnished the non-partisan reputation he has maintained through 29 eventful years as FBI director. However, there were no signs that Democratic coolness would freeze away any fund requested for the FBI. Morris said the subcommittee is not trying to put the finger on individual Communists although testimony "very definitely" could lead to spy convictions. He said it is looking into alleged Communist infiltration of years ago because it wants to trace a pattern of government subversion which Communists might still be following.

He said the subcommittee has "several things" to ask Igor Gouzenko, onetime Russian embassy code clerk at Ottawa who in 1945 exposed a Red spy ring operating in Canada with contacts in the United States.

Skull Called Phony

London, Nov. 21 (AP)—Three sleuthing British scientists declared today the skull of the fabulous "Pitdown Man," accepted for 40 years by many of the world's top anthropologists as a relic of man's earliest history, is a phony. They branded the relic the product of a "most elaborate and carefully prepared hoax," partly faked from ape bones. Charles Dawson, an attorney and amateur antiquarian, discovered part of the skull in a southern England gravel pit in 1911. In the next two years he produced from the same pit a jawbone and a tooth which some anthropologists said established the skull's age as at least 100,000 and perhaps 600,000 years old.

Car Found Quickly

An hour after Eugene Archer, of 104 Fairmont avenue, reported his car stolen from North Front street, it was recovered by Officer John Frisch near the court house on Wall street. It was reported stolen at 2:10 a. m., Sunday and recovered at 3:10 a. m.

Accepts Another Job

London, Nov. 23 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II accepted another job and title today, becoming "Master of the Merchant Navy and Fishing Fleets." Her new dignity does not call for a special uniform or flag. But making the queen titular head of the mercantile and fishing fleets is a recognition of the vital services they perform to the empire in peace and war. It was announced at Prime Minister Churchill's office. Elizabeth is the first woman to hold the title. It was first conferred on the Prince of Wales, the present Duke of Windsor, in 1928.

Bride of Veteran

MRS. EDWARD RICHARD DUNN (Brentwood Photo)

Carol Louise Smith, Edward Richard Dunn Wed in West Hurley

Miss Carol Louise Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus A. Smith of Morgan Hill, became the bride of Edward Richard Dunn of West Hurley in a ceremony held at St. John's Church, West Hurley, Sunday, Nov. 15 at 2:30 p. m. The Rev. James L. Riordan of this church performed the ceremony.

Mrs. A. A. Champanier was organist and sang the selections, Ave Maria and Panis Angelicus. The church was decorated with white pompons, chrysanthemums and huckleberry greens. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of rosepoint lace over white satin, styled with a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and a tiny collar. Her floor length skirt was paneled in lace and nylon tulle. She wore a princess crown of seed pearls and rhinestones to which was attached her French illusion veil. She carried a bridal bouquet of Fuji chrysanthemums with a corsage of cymbidiums.

Miss Arlene J. Smith of Morgan Hill was the honor attendant for her sister. Her gown was of cotton blue nylon net, fashioned with a satin Empire bodice and a bouffant floor length skirt. A capelet of matching satin and a half hat trimmed with silk lilacs completed her ensemble. She carried a nosegay of yellow chrysanthemums with ribbon streamers.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Nancy Muccio and Miriam Havens of Kingston, and Miss Lillian Bargisen of Brooklyn. Their gowns were identical to that of the honor attendant. They carried nosegays of bronze chrysanthemums with ribbon streamers.

The best man was H. John Fitzsimmons of West Hurley. Joseph Dunn, brother of the bridegroom, and Lawrence Ryan, both of West Hurley, and Bernard Smith, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Deane's in Woodstock.

For a motor trip through the south, the bride wore a beige dress, red coat, with brown accessories and an orchid corsage. On their return, the couple will make their home in West Hurley.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School and the Moran—Spencerian Business School. She was formerly employed in the office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Kingston High School and is a veteran of World War 2. He is employed at the Kingston Savings and Loan Association.

Church Work Vital At State Institute, Speaker Declares

Lloyd Wilkow, assistant superintendent of the Institution for Male Defective Delinquents at Napanoch, said recently at a meeting of the WSCS of St. James Methodist Church that New York State Department of Correction can reach boys today who could not possibly have been reached 30 years ago.

He further said that the attack on crime must be done by the church as well as the police, home and school in the community. In describing the work at the institution, Mr. Wilkow noted that to Napanoch come defectives whose background has been neglected, and who respond to praise, affection, appreciation and personal interest. The group avail themselves of every opportunity for education, and abilities of the individual are furthered by the work.

He emphasized that the church is a most important part of this entire program. Concluding, Mr. Wilkow said that the institution gives the boy a chance, and that those in charge feel that many will go out and make good.

Sixth Annual Ball Program Announced By Sauter's Legion

Sauter's, Nov. 23—Members of the committee headed by General Chairman Harold Swart set forth an impressive program for the sixth annual Harvest Ball which is the traditional Friday-after-Thanksgiving event sponsored by the Lamoree-Hackett Post 72, scheduled for Friday, Nov. 27, in municipal auditorium. The floor show, which will precede dancing to the music of Sonny Dunham, will start at 8 p. m. Dancing will be from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. The hour vaudeville show will consist of acts brought direct from New York and will include Hank Whitehouse, who is better known for his work in Olsen and Johnson's Hellzapoppin, who will provide a comical dancing pantomime act. Michael Chimes and his family will feature harmonica selections and the Whirling Wizards, a roller skating team, will do their specialty on skates. The program will be rounded out with lions, an outstanding acrobatic artist.

Plays Two Instruments

Sonny Dunham will himself perform on both the trumpet and trombone. Contrary to theories of other musicians and teachers who maintain that it is impossible to master both the trumpet and the trombone, Dunham has mastered both instruments. Dunham whose feat has been featured in Bob Ripley's Believe It Or Not, got his chance with the Paul Tremaine orchestra where he starred in the trombone section. There also he picked up his fondness for the trumpet. A short while later he joined Glen Gray's Casa Loma Orchestra where his recordings featured some Casa Loma records which later became collectors' items. In December 1940 Dunham left Gray and formed his own unit. His first big date was the Palladium in Hollywood and he has scored in theatres and ballrooms from coast to coast ever since.

Committees Listed

Dress for the event is optional, formal or informal. Other committees include tickets, Leonard Gilmore, Russell O'Dea, David Bell, John Lowther and George Swart; program, Cortland Stauss; music and entertainment, Richard Thornton; lights, Harold Farrell; decorations, Roy Helmsortel, John Burns, Robert Messinger, Edwin Bond, David Bell, Vernon Tyne, Henry Genthner, Edward Buckley, Charles Gilmore, Albert Genthner, John Granwehr, George Jorgenson, George Hayes, and Jack Rivenberg; refreshments, Lawrence Roosa, Thomas Vaccavice and Ronald Swart; publicity, John Davis, Roy Helmsortel and Edwin Bond. HOW DOES BABY SITTER GO HOME?

A mother asks: "When my husband and I go out for the evening and have a baby sitter come in to stay with the children, is it necessary for my husband to drive her home at the end of the evening? I don't think it is, but a friend of mine tells me that her husband always drives their sitter home and that it is improper to let her go home alone. I would very much appreciate hearing from you about this."

It would depend upon where she lives and how late you keep her up. If you return home fairly early she can go home by herself. But if it is very late at night, your husband should drive her home.

Travel Questions

Dear Mrs. Post: I plan on going on a tour shortly and would appreciate your help on several questions that I am in doubt about. (1) When I arrive at a hotel and the doorman takes my suitcase from the taxi to the desk, do I tip him or just the bellboy who carries by bags to the room? (2) What is the customary tip given to a bellboy? (3) A friend of mine tells me that it is permissible on an overnight journey on the train, to take off my shoes and put on slippers and also change into a housecoat. Is this correct?

Answer: (1) Very definitely you tip the bellboy and probably the doorman, too, if he carries your bags any distance. Nothing is given to him if he just puts your bags on the sidewalk. (2) If your bags are many or very heavy, the bellboy is given 50 cents; otherwise 25 cents is sufficient. (3) If the slippers and housecoat are both inconspicuous, it would be quite all right, but not something that would attract attention.

Red Tablecloth

Dear Mrs. Post: For my birthday, I had a lovely red dinner cloth given to me. Can red be used all the year round or would its use be limited only to the Christmas season?

Answer: Its use is not limited to any particular season as long as it looks well with your other appointments.

Menus for a formal dinner, buffet lunch or supper are included in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-25, "Menus for Every Occasion." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot

Manfro's 735 Series Paces Jones Dairy's 3328 Against Elstons

Cracks 232-244 259 as Joneses Register Sweep

1142-1072-1114 Sets
Are New HVBL High

For a guy who is supposed to be the "weak man" in Jones Dairy's Hudson Valley League bowling powerhouse, captain Charlie Manfro put on quite a show against Elston Sport Shop Saturday night at the Bowlodrome.

The swarthy socker blasted a brilliant 735 series on solos of 232, 244 and 259 to pace the Dairy men to a new seasonal record blast of 3328. The shower of strikes upped their old mark by 25 pins.

Manfro hit the pocket more consistently than any of the ten men on the runways. It was his strong finish in the middle set that enabled the Dairy men to salvage the only game in which Elston Sport Shop threatened.

The Joneses swept the intra-city clash with solid games of 1142, 1072 and 1114. The Sportsmen rolled well enough to win an ordinary match, but the Dairy men are seldom ordinary on alleys 7 and 8. Elstons stacked a creditable 3045 on game totals of 1015, 984 and 1016.

Fourteen '200' Scores

Seven of ten keggers competing rolled "600" or better and Jones Dairy came within an eyelash of putting all 15 individual totals in the "200" class. Dick Howard missed out with a 190 in his middle game.

Larry Weishaupt, off to a flashy start, compiled 669 with 241-205-223. Harold Broskie fired 223-215-211 for 649 in the second spot and Dick Howard fired 225-613. Johnny Ferraro anchored with 221-218-223-662.

On the Elston side, Frank Grimaldi sloughed off in the third game but finished with 665 on solos of 222, 256 and 187. Angie Ferraro was steady around the pocket and showed 213-200-230-

Robinson Cops Eastern Prize

George Robinson, secretary of the Central Rec Major League, won a $20 squad prize with a five-game total of 1021 last night in the Eastern States Individual Classic at Paterson. He opened the set with a 255 slam.

Other Kingston keggers — Johnny Ferraro, Larry Weishaupt, Harold Broskie and Dick Howard — failed to finish in the money.

Phil Versace of Poughkeepsie won high single for the squad with 244, since Robinson was eligible for only one prize on a squad basis.

643 for his night's work.

Rapp's Express hauled in a ringer—Johnny Bailey—to upset Schryver Lumber 2-1 on alleys 5 and 6 at the Bowlodrome.

The Expressmen captured the first game 1022-1005. The Lumberjacks won the second, 927-882 but Rapp's socked a 999 finale to Schryver's 934.

Bailey's contribution to the cause was a 609 series with solos of 206, 223 and 180. Ken Joseph fired 214-605 in the anchor slot. Buster Ferraro had a 221 and Boots Leskie hit 210-585.

George Robinson opened the match with a 8-timer and 255 single. Other games of 190 and 193 added up to a 638 series. Whitey Crispell slammed 203-584 and George Shufeldt had a 223 single.

Spartans Get Rose Bowl Bid Over Illinois

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 23 (AP)—After a nervous night, Michigan State College was jumping with joy today.

There was a smile on every campus face and every MSC football follower was trying to figure out a way to spend New Year's Day in Pasadena.

News that Michigan State finally had been selected for the Rose Bowl caused a noisy but orderly demonstration on the campus.

Around 8,000 undergraduates attended a pep rally where Dean of Students Tom King promised the Thanksgiving holiday would start a day early on Wednesday—if there were no rioting.

Students snake danced across the campus, singing "California Here We Come" and "The MSC Fight Song."

MSC Coach Biggie Munn heard the news at the homes of friends where he was partying with his wife—the first time in three months he has been able to go on a date with her.

Munn, beaming with joy, posed for photographs, kissing his wife and smelling a bunch of roses a foresighted newsman had brought along.

Every few minutes, he was interrupted by telephone congratulations. His baby sitter had told everyone where he could be reached.

MSC President John A. Hannah, who flew back to Washington Sunday to resume his duties as Assistant Secretary of Defense, left a prepared statement for use in case the Spartans got the bid.

"Everyone at Michigan State is greatly pleased," the statement said in part. "I'm especially happy for the members of the team and coaches. We will do our best to deserve the honor the conference has bestowed upon us."

NBA's Plan Fails to Halt Rough Tactics

(By The Associated Press)

The trial rule designed by the National Basketball Association to reduce fouling and roughness apparently isn't the answer to the pro game's problem.

It went into effect last Saturday for a week's trial. Under the rule the team whose player is charged with his third and thereafter fouls in either the third or fourth period loses possession of the ball after the shot. The rule does not apply in either of the first two periods.

In four games played last Thursday and Friday nights, before the adoption of the new regulation, there were a total of 210 personal fouls called. Saturday night, with the rule in effect, there were the same number in four games. And last night 173 were called in three games.

Both of the division leaders, the Minneapolis Lakers and the New York Knickerbockers, strengthened their hold on first place last night.

The Lakers edged the Milwaukee Hawks 57-55 with Dick Schmitt's shot from under the basket and George Mikan's free throw giving them the game in the last 57 seconds. Mikan paced the scorers with 24 points.

The Knicks edged the Syracuse Nats 84-80 for the second time in as many nights. "This was a game in which the crowd threw the game into a bedlam after referee Sid Borgia disallowed a field goal by Dolph Schayes and ruled the Syracuse center had fouled Sweetwater Clifton 20 seconds before the end of the overtime. Police escorted the officials from the floor.

In the other game, Fort Wayne outlasted the Rochester Royals 83-82 in a rough scramble that saw 82 fouls called.

Cotton-Sugar Bowl Picture To Be Cleared Next Weekend

UCLA-Michigan State Set for Rose Bowl

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—The fog—not the same one that has been plaguing the east for the past week—was beginning to lift today on the confused bowl picture. The Rose Bowl and Orange Bowl promoters were just about out of it.

Still fogbound, however, were the Cotton Bowl and Sugar Bowl chieftains. They have plenty of teams from which to make their selections, but they didn't have the faintest notion of how to go about trimming the list of eligibles.

Most of the talk was over Notre Dame's tactics—or to use a better words, dramatics—that all but saved Frank Leahy's boys from defeat. First it was Frank Varichione who caused an "injured player" timeout with one second to go in the first half and the Irish behind. They promptly tied it. Then Art Hunter and Don Penza did the same thing with six seconds in the game left and the Irish trailing. Again they tied it.

UCLA in Bowl

As for the bowls, the Rose will pit Michigan State against UCLA. The Uclans, champions of the Pacific Coast conference, needed only the official ratification of the rest of the league to make it official. State was voted in the last night at a Big 10 meeting. The Spartans wound up in a tie with Illinois for the league championship, each with a record of 5-1.

The Orange Bowl will send Oklahoma, the Big Seven winner, against Maryland, which finished its season Saturday with a 21-0 victory over Alabama. The Terps are the only major undefeated-untied team in the country.

Cotton Bowl officials are being forced to wait for the end of the Southwest Conference season to determine the host team. Right now Baylor, Rice and Texas are tied for the lead. Baylor and Rice go at each other Saturday, so one will be eliminated.

Officials said they hoped to decide the visiting team within the next 48 hours. Georgia Tech has the inside track, although still up for consideration are Kentucky, West Virginia, Auburn, Alabama and Mississippi.

If Mississippi can get by Mississippi State, however, and wins the Southeastern Conference title, it probably will go to the Sugar Bowl, very possibly against the second place team in the Southwest Conference. If State wins, the Southeastern Conference champion would be decided by the Alabama-Auburn game Saturday. The Southeastern Conference victor usually plays in the Sugar Bowl.

As for the Notre Dame-Iowa fracas, and the repercussions thereof, the coaches had to look at it one of two ways:

1. The Irish overstepped themselves and used plain skullduggery in their desperate (and successful) attempt to keep their undefeated skein going.
 2. Anything goes in football and so long as the officials can't call you on it, it's legitimate.
- All sides maintained a discreet silence today.

The last big Saturday of the season ran pretty much true to form. The big games of the day were on the west coast where UCLA and Stanford then, were tied for the conference lead. The Uclans defeated Southern California 13-0 and Stanford could not do better than tie California 21-21.

Oregon State, a team that couldn't score a point in its first five games, surprised one and all by beating Oregon 7-0. Mississippi Southern, which started off the season with an upset over Alabama, finished operations by thumping Georgia 14-0.

Harry's Angels Snap Haber's Six-Game Winning Streak, 85-84

Toronto Jinx Hexes Hawks

The Toronto Maple Leafs were thankful today that the Chicago Black Hawks are still in the National Hockey League.

The Leafs defeated the Black Hawks last night 5-1 for their fifth straight victory over the Hawks this season. The Leafs thereby climbed into a second place tie with the Detroit Red Wings, who trimmed the New York Rangers 3-2. The league leading Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins played to a 2-2 tie. Sid Smith tallied twice in 29 seconds of the third period to turn a fairly tight game into an easy victory for the Leafs. Jean Maros, 28-year-old rookie goalie brought up from Quebec to replace Al Rollins, ailing from chicken pox, was the victim of Toronto's heavy attack.

Rookie Bill Dineen's hard shot past Johnny Bower midway in the third period gave Detroit an uphill victory over the Rangers. The Rangers led 2-0 on goals by Paul Ronty and Camille Henry going into the final minute of the second period, but two goals by Johnny Wilson pulled the Red Wings even.

Montreal's right winger Calum Mackay fired home a third period goal enabling the Canadiens to end a string of six regular season losses to the Bruins on Boston ice, dating back to last December.

Kleine and East Collaborate in Autumn Thriller

'A' Division Pennant Still Up for Grabs

League Standing
	Won	Lost
Haber's Grill	7	1
Harry's Angels	6	2
Victory Bakery	2	6
Lincoln Park Inn	1	7

Harry's Angels staged a spectacular rally to shatter the Haber's Grill six-game winning streak, 85-84 in an "A" division classic Saturday night on the Y boards.

The victory left the Angels only a game off the pace with the final games scheduled next weekend.

Big Bill Kleine of Woodstock furnished the heroics for the Angels with two important shots in the last 85 seconds. And Big Bill East won it with two fouls.

The unbeaten Habers led by four points at this juncture when Kleine hit with a one-hander from 25 feet out. A moment later he intercepted a Bill Haber pass, dribbled the length of the court and hit from the corner to tie the score at 83-83.

With 30 seconds remaining, Big Bill East was fouled and made both conversions to send Harry's ahead, 85-83. Ray Lawrence was fouled but was able to make only one of the two tries. That left the score 85-84 with 20 seconds remaining. The Angels then froze the ball for the remainder of the game.

Kleine's 22 points led both squads, with four others hitting around the 20-mark. The win was sweet revenge for the Angels who had previously suffered two close losses to the league leaders.

Dick Bezemer boosted his seasonal harvest to 175 points with 20 markers for Haber's Grill. Skip Broadhead furnished 19, John Godwin 15 and Bill Haber 12.

Kleine got solid assistance from Champ Holstein with 19 points, Bill East with 20 and Ward Dunham who bucketed 13.

Doyle Sinks 30
Big Jack Doyle's 30-point spurge for Lincoln Park Inn was the top individual effort of the night in the exhibition game that followed the forfeit by the Lincolns.

The Bakers tried desperately to make a contest of it with a spectacular 35-point spree in the fourth period but the Lincolns quickly regained the offensive with a 29-19 bulge in the final quarter.

Doyle zeroed the rim for 13 fields and 4 singletons. George McElroy dumped 16 from the center slot.

Don Smith unloaded 25 points for the Bakers, with Frank Ebelheiser and Mike Provenzano sharing 33 in the front court.

Why We Say--

MORTGAGE

When we buy a house with just a down payment, we might sign a mortgage. The word is actually derived from the Latin word "mor", death, and Old French "gage", pledge. Originally when an older son wanted to borrow money, he would sign a pledge to pay when he inherited his estate, which was after the death of his father.

CYO Basketball Clinic Set Tuesday Night at MJM Gym

There will be teams made up of boys under 85 pounds, under 100 pounds, under 120 and under 135 pounds.

Games will be played on Saturday mornings at the MJM gym and Washington School. Registration will be made under the direction of William Mahoney and a group of volunteers.

Sharpes Defend Title Against Melby - Darnell

The Sharpe brothers—Mike and Ben—defend their world championship in Australian tag wrestling against Wild Bill Melby and Billy Darnell in the feature bout tonight at the municipal auditorium.

Melby and Darnell stripped the Sharpes of their title here three weeks ago before 2,000 fans. The Sharpes later regained the bauble.

Jack Bence, Springfield, Mass., and Johnny Barend, Rochester, have been paired for the two out of three falls semi-final.

Opening the show at 8:45 p. m. will be Jack Nichols of Boston against Danny Malone, Toronto, in a one-fall, 30-minute bout.

Cleveland Browns Nearing 5th Straight Division Title

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—Cleveland's unbeaten Browns, winner of nine games, can clinch the Eastern Conference title Sunday for their fifth divisional championship in the National Football League but the Western Conference race could well go down to the final day of the season Dec. 13.

The Browns moved within one victory of the title yesterday by edging the Pittsburgh Steelers 20-16 and there's nothing in the books to indicate they won't chalk up No. 10 at the expense of the winless Chicago Cardinals Sunday.

Detroit's Lions still held to a half-game lead over the Los Angeles Rams in the western division after beating the Chicago Bears 20-16. The Rams stayed within striking distance with a 21-13 win over the Baltimore Colts. The San Francisco 49ers remained only a game off the lead after downing the Green Bay Packers 37-7.

All three face what figures to be comparatively easy opposition this week. The Lions take on the Packers Thursday while the Rams meet the Chicago Bears and the 49ers tangle with the Colts at Baltimore Sunday.

Washington defeated the New York Giants 24-21 in the only game yesterday that had no bearing on the upper strata of the standings. On Saturday night the high scoring Philadelphia Eagles won their sixth straight to retain a mathematical chance of catching the Browns. They defeated the Cardinals 38-0.

The Browns had a tussle with the Steelers but, as usual, combined the pitching arm of Otto Graham and Lou Groza's toe for victory. The veteran Cleveland quarterback tossed two touchdown passes—one for 54 yards to Ray Renfro and the other for 31 yards to Darrell Brewster—and Groza kicked two field goals.

Safe Thieves Get

a heavy bar and shop hammer. The combination dial was hammered in and the door jimmied and forced with the heavy garage bar and hammer.

The other jobs were achieved in much the same way with tools taken from the garages. Ellenville State Police reported a theft of "mostly tools" from the farm implement establishment of A. Traver at Accord, three or four weeks ago.

Recent Attempts Reported

State Police at Highland reported recent attempts at burglaries in that area and one police source indicated today that a series of safe-cracking thefts have been reported in the Hudson valley region "as far down as Rockland county" within the past several weeks.

The exact amount taken from the Martin and Moran garage will not be known until after a check is made, but police were told it would amount to about $1,800.

The police report said the garage building was entered during the night and the safe was forced open by a "hand sledge and car bar". Entry was gained through removal of a small pane of glass.

Rafalowsky, chairman. Dietrich and Diane are the manipulators of all the marionettes on the new television show, the Adventures of Blinky, seen every Saturday at 11:30 a. m. on Channel 7. Know Our Schools Campaign Joined By Local Teachers

The Kingston Teachers Association is participating in the statewide Know Our Schools campaign, it was announced today by Alexander Banyo, president.

The campaign, inaugurated by the New York State Teachers Association, is designed to intensify interest in public education and to stimulate a more general desire on the part of citizens everywhere to support better schools.

A committee has been appointed consisting of Mrs. Dorothy W. Buehring, a member of the faculty of the George Washington School, as chairman, assisted by the Misses Isabelle Malone, Thelma Metzger and Mary Pohemus and the Mesdames Maude Bunting, Beatrice Cullum, Anne Duffy and Adelaide VanWagenen.

Folders Distributed

The committee has distributed two informative pamphlets, Just How Good Are Our Schools? and Better Schools Are the Foundation for a Better Government. Teacher representatives and civic organizations have received copies of the pamphlets.

Underlying theme of the pamphlets pertains to the nature of effective public action in promoting better schools. The committee asks that the pamphlets be read carefully and critically. Constructive comments and suggestions are invited, it was said.

The folder, Just How Good Are Our Schools? emphasizes that a child's future depends upon the quality of the schools and the quality upon the citizens of the community. The folder asks: Do you, as a citizen, know how good the schools in your community are? Are they staffed with qualified teachers? Are the classes small enough for every child to receive the attention he requires? Do teachers possess the teaching aids they need for effective teaching? etc.

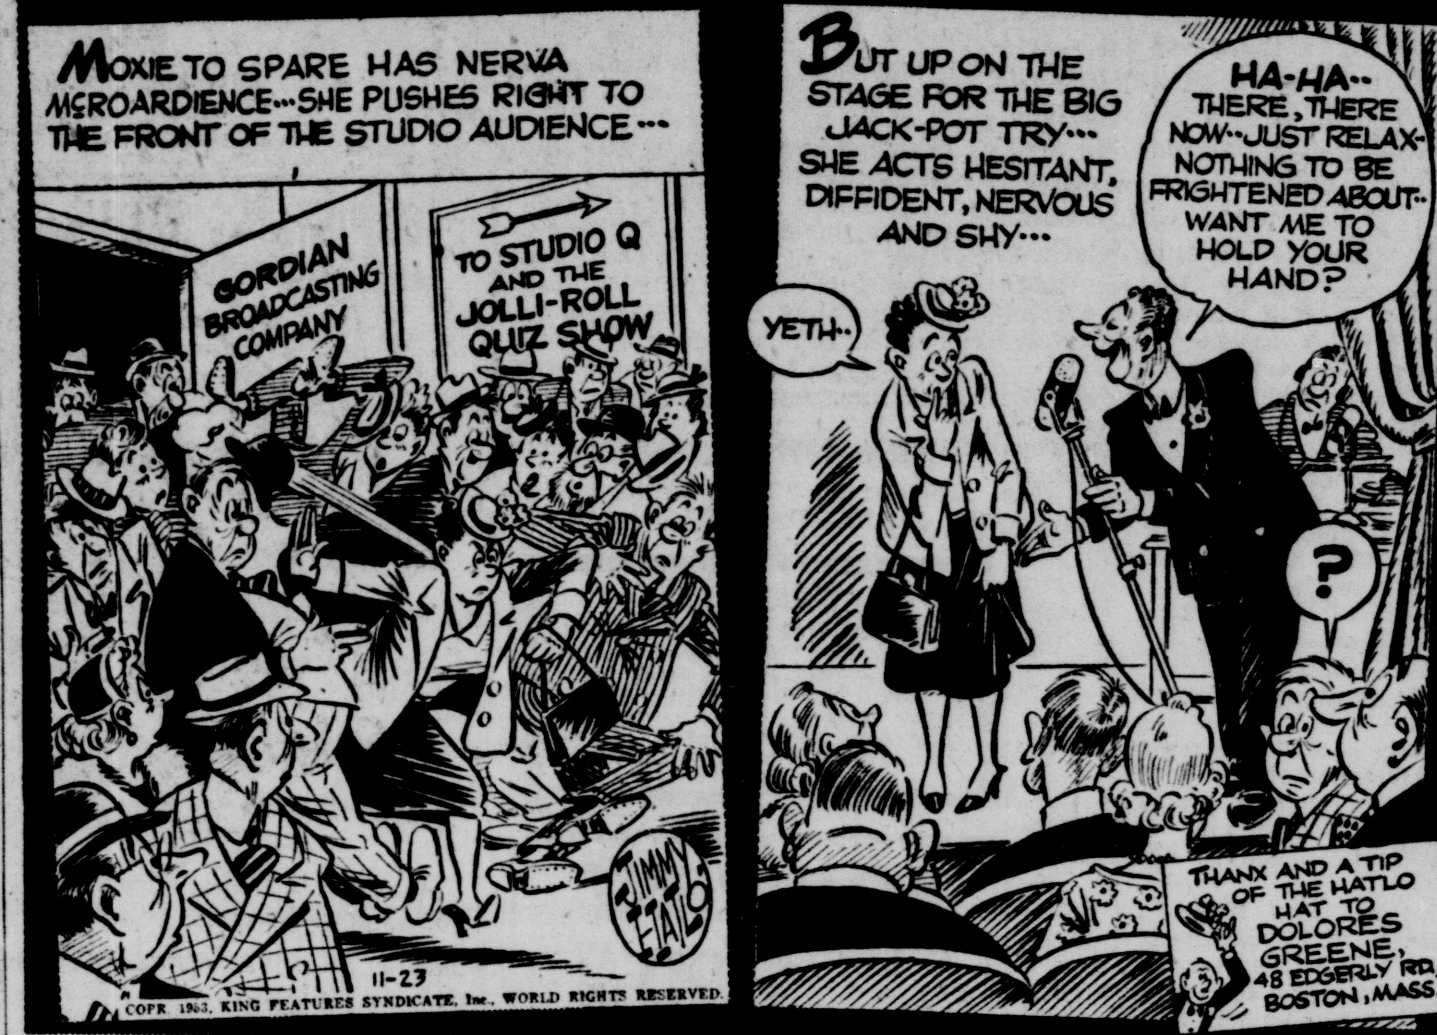

Schools May Be Rated

The folder includes a chart by which a particular school may be rated as poor, good or better. The pamphlet stresses the importance of mastery of the three R's and the significant role of the school as a force in developing intelligent, moral citizens.

The second folder, Better Schools Are the Foundation for a Better Government, emphasizes the responsibility of the schools in transmitting knowledge and appreciation of the American heritage, joined with the responsibility of preparing youth for lifelong active citizenship in a world of crucial change and complex problems. Knowledge is not sufficient, it

Similar Crashes Occur on Sunday

Two very similar accidents were policed by state troopers of Highland Sunday.

Each of the accidents involved two northbound vehicles and in each case the first car stopped near the center of the highway in order to make a left hand turn and was struck in the rear by the following car, according to the troopers' reports.

The first accident occurred on Route 9W one mile north of Milton at 3:50 p. m. Sunday and involved an automobile driven by Isola Conway, 28, of Newburgh, followed by an auto driven by Joseph Trombetti, 43, of Milton, troopers said. Mrs. Mary Trombetti, 41, received contusions of both legs, and Adeline Rossi, 60, of New York City, received lacerations of the left leg, troopers reported.

No Arrests Made

The second accident, on Route 9W at Highland about 10:40 p. m., involved an automobile driven by Jerry Power, 28, of Milton, followed by one driven by Howard Pearlman, 49, of New York, troopers said. Pearlman was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh for treatment of chest injuries and loss of several teeth, according to the report.

No arrest was made in either accident.

Army Probers

investigators may be searching for an American youth or man as the killer.

A former Japanese houseboy in the Rothschild home apparently has been ruled out by army investigators as a suspect in the killing.

Susan's body was found by her father in a few inches of water in the bottom of the drainage ditch.

A large watchdog in a dog house just the other side of the moat did not bark and residents only 150 feet from the path heard no screams.

Investigators drained the ditch in the hopes that it might reveal additional clues but if it did, those clues were not revealed.

Mrs. Rothschild was confined to her bed today and both parents were described as "completely broken up by the tragedy."

Trying to Give Food

United Nations, Nov. 23 (P)—A UN economic survey said today that the Soviet bloc countries in Europe are trying to give their people a greater share of food, clothing and other consumer goods. The Economic Bulletin for Europe, October issue, said further changes to carry out this policy came in the third quarter of this year. They stress a greater role again for private producers as well as higher gains for all producers as incentives.

When little Jerry Clemens asked him what humility was, Old Man Hobbs answered that it was something people liked to talk about after they had become so rich they could afford it.

Dr. MacFadden Is Named President Albany Med Group

Dr. Elbert F. MacFadden, Jr., of Kingston, was elected president of the Mid-Hudson Albany Medical College Alumni Association at a meeting Nov. 16 at Leher's Restaurant.

Dr. Sam Simon of Poughkeepsie was elected secretary. Elected to the executive committee were Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, Kingston; Dr. Marie L. Cote, Newburgh; and Dr. Thomas R. Shannon, Poughkeepsie. Dr. Shannon, the 1953 president, presided at the meeting, which was attended by physicians representing seven counties.

Program Outlined

James F. Adams, president of the Board of Trustees of Albany Medical College, gave a talk on the financial aspects of the school, outlining a program for improving its financial status.

Dr. Frank Furlong of Poughkeepsie, president of the Greater Alumni Association, spoke briefly on behalf of that body and its interest in the Mid-Hudson group.

Programs at the medical school were outlined by Dr. Harold C. Wiggers, dean of the Medical College, who noted his preference for the smaller college with its intimacy of faculty and students, academically and socially, as compared to the three larger institutions with which he had formerly been associated. Dr. Percy Waller, class of 1893, who was designated New York State's "General Practitioner of the Year" several years ago, gave some stories of his early practice 60 years ago.
